Biography of Derek Rubinsky

I was born on April 5, 1967 in a collective farm outside of Leningrad, in the Soviet Union. It was there that I was shown the benefits, and disadvantages, of living in the Soviet Interpretation of Socialism. Growing up in what was easily one of the most influential entities of the 20th century had its perks. I excelled in my education, and I was able to enter Leningrad State University, where I majored in Philosophy, and Political Science. Unfortunately my education was at the eve of the fall of the Soviet Union, and I was riding a sinking ship. During my Senior Year it fell, and without a government to fund my college education, I had no money to stay in. I entered a state of extreme poverty, my Karl Marx, and Rousseau did me little good on the streets. My nation was destroyed.

It was then I realized that Leon Trotsky was right. In order to bring an age of communism you cannot have a single socialized state isolated from the world, as Stalin thought. As long as there are powerful capitalist nations in existence, the revolution is doomed to fail. So I have come here, to the heart of the Bourgeoisie, to attack it at it's core, for this Bureaucracy must fall, and we must free the world of it's Imperialist driven chains. The only way is to take the fight head on. So Proletarians on the great nation of America, I ask you for your support in overthrowing the deeply entrenched Oligarchy, so we can see a beautiful future for America, and the World.
